

Columbia College Chicago :: MFA in Creative Writing—Poetry

Kristin Ravel

Sleeping In Corncobs

To seduce a duke, to play the goat song on an ocarina, to plant flower beds, to earn virginity, to raise a goblet in the air, to dance a gypsy song, to stabilize the waters of a lake, to fill a crater with bodies, to scream in the bed room, to awaken close to water, to ride a camel, to watch the reproduction of prepositions, to spin on the end of a hair, to fall into wealth, to linger in grass, to simulate your soul, to implant a heart, to stitch the flesh-- better now, to explore a tavern, to celebrate the dream of a sword, to become infants, to jump in feathers.